Notes:

It is known that an Army team was formed in 1974 and 1975 for a match against the RN/RM, probably as part of the Army's Inter Corps Championships began in 1978. In the first years CCF members (M17) could compete, as well as the TAVR. By 1981 the format was established of men's teams of up to 10 athletes, with 6 to count; in 1983 women's teams were 6 strong, 3 to count, and the TAVR no longer counted for the team competition. From 1984 to 2002 inclusive, except for 1996, Colours were awarded to those whose result counted in the team competition (shown as red shading and "X"). These were the best 6 men and 3 women in 1984; the best 7 men and 4 women from 1985 to 1992; and the best 7 men and 4 women from 1993. In 1996 the Team Manger awarded Colours to the whole selected team of 10 men and 6 women: the additional selections are shown with orange shading. This resumed as official policy from 2003. Team members not awarded Colours prior to 2003 are shown by orange shading and lower case 'x', where known. A Colours Badge was discontinued in 201... Until 2015 the event was held in October-December; the 2016 Championships were held in January/February, this becoming a seasonal competition rather than annual. Teams for the years/seasons shaded yellow in the header row are extracted from the hosting civilian event results, so it is not entirely clear who was in the team and who may have been a Reserve; the slowest result is left unshaded.

Ranks are shown as at last selection. Those changing corps/regiment or on a different engagement are shown on separate but adjacent rows.
